RESIDENTIAL CONVEYANCING: SALES

The Solicitors Regulation Authority, the body which regulates law firms, requires us to provide you with information on our costs in relation to certain legal services which we provide. This is so that you have the information you need to make an informed choice of legal service provider, and an understanding as to what the total cost of that service may be.

One such legal service is the sale, purchase and mortgage of residential property.

The fees which we charge for residential conveyancing depend on a wide variety of factors including but not limited to whether the transaction is a sale or purchase, where the property is, and whether it is a flat or a house.

We have provided information on the potential costs for sales and purchases and listed the factors which may cause those costs to increase. However, fees will vary from property to property and can on occasion be significantly more than the ranges given. We can give you an accurate figure once we have specific information about the property including having sight of the relevant documentation.

This page details our pricing structure for property sales.

The legal fees you will pay for a property sale is based on the price of the property, the location of the property and any specific circumstances.

Our fees cover all the work required to complete the sale of your property.

Table 1 below shows the range of fees we can charge for a property of a particular price. For a specific quote, please contact us. The specific circumstances are shown in table 2 and disbursements in table 3.

Our fees assume that:

- This is a standard transaction and that no unforeseen matters will arise including for example (but not limited to) a defect in title which requires remedying prior to completion or the preparation of additional documents ancillary to the main transaction, a first registration of title prior to a sale, or a sale of part.
- The transaction is concluded in a timely manner and no unreasonable complications arise.
- All parties in the transaction are cooperative and there is no unreasonable delay from third parties providing documentation.
- No indemnity policies are required. Additional disbursements may be required if an indemnity policy is required.
- That the transaction is in the name of an individual only and not a company. If you are selling in the name of a company, please call our office for a quotation.
- That the transaction is not in connection to or relating to any commercial transaction. If this is the case, please call our office for a quotation.
